J. B. DOLLISON, Pub'r.

EX-PRESIDENT General Harrison died Wednesday last week. A great man has passed out of American history.

STARK Township Democrats nominated the following ticket, on March 9: For Trustee, John Loomis; for Treasurer, Henry Groves; for assessor, John Bolinger; for constable, Chas. Rizer.

WE HAVE a good ticket in Logan and Falls nominated by the democratic party for this spring election, the personnel of which appears at the head of this column. They are all good men and merit the support of our people.

WARD township Democrats nominated the following ticket for this spring election: For trustee Isaac Spencer; for treasurer, Conrad Wein; for assessor, Sam'l. Trease and Till Angle; for constable Tom Perry; for justice, L. M. Redfern. A permanent township organization was effected with Hiram Lanning as chairman and John Connors as secretary.

As was said on our streets Tuesday evening, John F. White, as the Republican Central Committee of Hocking county, had a meeting of himself on that day and on motion of his brother Sen, who happened in, the following executive committee for the ensuing year was chosen: John F. White, A. C. Sands, Will Stone, Dr. Rannels, Ed Ricketts, Ed Kelley, S. P. Soliday, H. F. Ambrose and F. M. McKay. The following delegates Brother Sen also suggested for the state convention: John F. White, A. C. Sands, S. H. Bright, F. M. McKay, F. C. Rochester, W. S. Stone, Ed Ricketts, J. M. Dennison, Ralph Mason, E. D. Kelley, W. L. Huls, and C. A. Chatfield. Senator Bright and Rep. Rannels were endorsed.

It is a shame that Harry Ambrose, forgot (?) to certify in the name of Editor Brannan, for council in the First Ward, and now his name will not appear on the ticket. This "forgot" business is a chestnut. The facts are, as we learn them, that Lon Naile and Harry Ambrose worked that scheme. Lon Naile is on the ticket and he is so proud that he didn't want Brannan's name on with his, and he is Ambrose' "Mark Hanna" and controlled things. Because Brannan is a poor Irish boy and Lon Naile is a bloated property owner, he was ashamed for Brannan to be on the ticket. This is an outrage on the Irish, and they should resent it. Lon Naile is an Englishman of the "silent H" type and it would have compromised him very much to have his name associated with Brannan, hence the "accidental" omission. Of course as a Democrat we are glad of it, because Brannan is a popular fellow and would have given Schlagetter a tight pull, but Lon Naile will be sorry he slighted Brannan, when the Irish get after him.

Great Philanthropists.

There are not many men so blessed, pecuniarily as to be able to witness with perfect complacency either the diminution or the increasing of their personal fortunes in a single day by the sum of $5,000,000. That is what has just happened to Andrew Carnegie and John D. Rockefeller, probably the two wealthiest Americans living, and certainly the two, who during life have given away the most colossal sums in charity and public philanthropies.

On the same day that recorded Mr. Carnegie's princely gift of $5,000,000 to shield from possible need the men whose brain and brawn have helped to make him a king of industry, Mr. Rockefeller by the simple process of absorbing his proportionate share of a 20 per cent Standard Oil dividend, adds to his available bank account the sum of $6,200,000.

Since March 1, 1900, the Standard Oil Co., has declared dividends amounting to 68 per cent. Within the period of one year the company has distributed among its stockholders the aggregate sum of $88,000,000. John D. Rockefeller's share of this amounts to $21,008,000. A simple computation shows that his income for the last year on these stock holdings has been rather more than $55,000 per day, or nearly $40.00 per minute.

Mr. Carnegie's income of the year is probably much larger. Less than 50 years ago, both these men of fabulous wealth were poor boys, the one a modestly paid clerk in a St. Louis commission house, the other a messenger boy in Pittsburgh earning but three dollars per week.

Both have been munificent in their charities. Each has given away within twenty-five years probably not less than $25,000,000. But this has been bestowed in different channels. Mr. Rockefeller is a devout church man, a pillar of the baptist church. Mr. Carnegie is not a disbeliever, yet he is not a church man in the usual adaptation of the term.

The Oil King's most princely gifts have gone to the University of Chicago and other institutions dominated by Baptist influence, to struggling churches and to home and foreign missions. He pays a salary of $10,000 a year to a trusted secretary, whose chief duty it is to investigate demands upon his check-book, and to sift and systematize his charities.

The Steel King's pet idea, on the other hand, has been to endow public libraries, music halls, parks and art galleries, the one essential requisite of which must be their accessibility to the public at large and their freedom from sectarian or class influences.

Mr. Carnegie years ago publicly avowed the dogma that "to die rich is to die disgraced." Before sailing for Europe recently he added that he had just begun to give away his superfluous wealth, yet, so rapidly have his millions been piling up, despite his ever open hand, that if Mr. Carnegie by some mischance were to die suddenly, he would today leave one of the most "disgracefully" large estates ever administered in spite of his own dictum.

NECROLOGICAL.

Mrs. Ellen A. Armstrong.

Ellen Augusta White was born in Perry township, Hocking county, Ohio, December 6, 1830, died March 2, 1901, aged 70 years, 2 months and 26 days.

She was the daughter of Alexander and Sarah White, and was one of a family of ten children, only four of whom now survive her, Rufus White of Indiana, Mrs. Daniel Ackers of Logan, O., Mrs. James Wells of Tidiot, Pa., and Mrs. Cobdenman of Gore, O.

She was married to John M. Floyd May 31, 1849. To this union were born three children, John L. and Charles M., both of Pennsylvania, and Mrs. Tennie Hedges, of near Tarpot, Ohio. In the fullness of his young manhood the husband and father died, December 30, 1855.

Ten years later, April 13, 1865, the deceased was married to Wm. Armstrong. To this union was born one daughter, Mrs. Minnie M. Kerns of Lancaster. For more than 23 years the home remained unbroken, but again in 1888, in the month of December, the husband and father was removed by death.

Mrs. Armstrong became a member of the Methodist Episcopal church in February, 1890, under the ministry of Rev. Andrew Carroll, and together with her first born son, was baptised in October of the same year. In a life of three score years and ten she has passed through more than the ordinary number of serious trials, but in the midst of them all she was supported by her Lord, in whom she trusted. She has now laid down the labor of life, and crossed over to that land toward which she was journeying for more than half a century. She was a good mother, loved and honored by her own children, and also by those who were taught to call her mother. She was a good, sympathetic neighbor, who had the spirit of helpfulness in the time of distress and need.

To the church of her choice she was a willingly loyal. She loved its spirit and ordinances; her home was a home for its ministry. But she loved every other church and people who exalted the name of Christ.

Reverently do we bow to the will of God in His providence, hoping to meet in the future where parting shall not come.

The funeral service, held at the home in Lancaster on Tuesday, March 5, was followed the next day, upon arrival at Adelphi, by a short funeral service at the M. E. church at that place. The pastor, Rev. R. A. Blair, and Rev. Elson, of Lancaster assisted at the service, the funeral oration being beautifully delivered by Rev. Dent who had known the deceased for many years.

The interment was had in the Green Summit cemetery, near Adelphi.

John Raymond Bowman.

John Raymond Bowman, son of James A. and Mace Bowman, was born Feb'y. 6th. 1898 and died March 15th. 1901, aged 3 years, 1 month and 9 days. At a tender age he was baptised under the ordinances of the Presbyterian church by Dr. Moore. His last sickness was of but few days duration but his suffering was intense. Yet like the brave boy he always was, he met pain and death without a murmur. All that medical skill and loving hands could do was of no avail. He grew gradually weaker and weaker until at the dawn of last Friday's spring morn his gentle spirit winged its flight from time to eternity.

For three short years he filled the home with joy and sunshine.

His brief life was a happy, contented one. Yet for him to die was gain. He will never know the ills and vanities of this world. He has escaped the dangers and temptations which beset those who remain to mourn. Though he cannot return to them, they can go to him.

There is a stream whose narrow tide, The known and unknown worlds divide, Where all must go. Its waveless waters, dark and deep, 'Mid sullen silence, downward sweep, With ceaseless flow.

I saw where at that dreary flood, A smiling infant, prattling stood, Whose hour had come. Unthought of ill, it neared the tide, Sunk as to erudite rest, and died— 'Twas going home.

W. R. C. Spelling School.

The Spelling School given by the W. R. C. was a success, the room was filled to overflowing. The programme of music and select reading was ably rendered, and was well received, after which Mrs. Spielman W. R. C. Pres., and J. T. McCormick, of the G. A. R. Post were appointed captains, with F. W. Dollison and Judge S. H. Bright as pronouncers. It was announced, Webster's spelling book No. 1 would be used. Then the choosing of sides began. A goodly number consented to try for the prize, and the spelling commenced.

Our best spellers went down on very simple words (as is usually the case in spelling schools.) Dr. Upton went down on "wait"; John Strentz on "revere"; Ed. Tritsch on "exonerate"; R. D. McManigal on "escordium"; Cart Bright on "visor"; Gene Wright on "pinard"; Fred Bright on "plebeian"; Mr. Adcock on "pavilion"; Miss Ledlow, one of Logan's fair visitors, and Mr. Wollett, were the last on the floor. She went down on "chandler."

Mr. Wollett won the prize, which was a beautiful medalion. Judge Bright made the presentation speech, Mrs. Spielman presented to Mrs. Frank Kittmiller a bouquet of carnations which was to be given to the first one spelled down. The W. R. C. are very grateful to the friends for their patronage.
